Steel Production Drops As Strikes Continue

20,000 WORKERS LAD OFF AS COAL DWINDLES

Some Hope For Settlement Of Fuel Crisis Seen By Government

OPERATORS, MINERS TALK Both Sides Said Looking For Compromise To Avoid 'Losing Face'

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—John L. Lewis today ordered more than 200,000 striking coal miners to go back to work on Monday.

He promised then that statements efforts to unionize mine workers would be resumed "at a more appropriate time."

Production of steel lagged alarmingly today as a result of a widespread soft coal strike which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes said would create a "very serious" fuel problem if allowed to continue.

More than 20,000 workers were laid off in the Pittsburgh smelting area alone, and other steel mills, unable to operate without coal, began shutting down.

Ickes said the shutdown of 208,000 miners—accounting for most of the nation's 464,000 idle workers—had cut soft coal production in half and was "beginning to hurt."

Meanwhile, limited operations were resumed along the New York waterfront, and police were alerted to break up any picket lines that might be formed around Hollywood motion picture studios.

Full service was resumed along the 900-mile length of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company lines today as striking transit workers returned to work for the state, which seized control of the system over the weekend.

One administration spokesman said the basis for a back-to-work movement might be achieved if Schwellenbach or Ickes was able to draft a compromise which both parties could accept without "losing face."

In the seven-months Hollywood film strike, a Warner Bros. spokesman admitted that the studio might be forced to close down "unless law and order is established." Cameras at Warners were idle again yesterday.

Film Czar Eric Johnston, armed with "full power" to represent the major movie producers, scheduled additional meetings with strike leaders and federal conciliators in an attempt to settle the jurisdictional dispute between rival AFL unions. Some 8,000 were on strike.

Nearly 50 club-wielding police and sheriff's deputies were called into action yesterday to force an end to the strike.

French Fail To Work With Allies

Occupation Of Germany Is Working Out Well With Few Exceptions

BY VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, Oct. 17—Allied occupation authorities in Germany are working fairly well together, except for French opposition to the proposed centralized administration of the occupied territory.

France's failure to accept the Potsdam directives, according to many responsible officials, constitutes the biggest stumbling block to the handling of many matters on which Britain, Russia and the United States already have agreed in principle.

The French are afraid that development of any central power in Germany would result only in restoration of a strong Germany and a powerful Teutonic military machine.

This attitude was confirmed by Charles de Gaulle at a recent press conference when he said:

"I never believe in a Germany which is re-established. De Gaulle recalled pointedly that German armies had invaded France three times within 70 years."

It can be revealed that many four-power sessions have been deadlocked recently by stubborn French opposition to any central direction of Germany's railways, canals or industries.

The negotiations on most points have not yet reached the point where it is entirely impossible for the four powers to continue discussions.

JAP RELIGIOUS CONTROL ENDED

$1,100,000 In Silver Bars Found By Americans Under Machine Shop

TOKYO, Oct. 17—The Japanese cabinet today abolished the religious organization control law in compliance with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's demand for religious freedom in Japan.

(The cable did not say whether the cabinet's action would have any effect on state Shintoism, by which the Japanese people are compelled to recognize Emperor Hirohito as a god—the son of heaven.)

While the cabinet was hewing to MacArthur's line, an American search party unearthed a cache of silver bars worth $1,100,000 presumably hidden away by Japanese militarists for future use. It was found beneath an abandoned navy machine shop on the shores of Tokyo bay.

Combat veterans of the American Division's 132nd infantry regiment, a former Chicago National Guard outfit, made the discovery during a routine search of old, rusting machinery in a shop at Haratsuka naval ordnance depot. As they were about to leave, one soldier noticed weeds growing in an irregular pattern in a corner. Investigation disclosed they camouflaged a trap door covering a timber-lined pit 16 feet deep.

At the bottom of the pit, the astonished Americans found 110 bars of silver valued at $10,000 apiece and each stamped with a serial number.

Warm and sunny weather was forecast for Wednesday with continued fair and warm weather predicted for Thursday, Friday and Saturday—the last three days of the Show.

REPORTS STATE ARMY MAN MAY SUCCEED PERON

Other Complications Show Up In Already Mixed Argentine Troubles

CIVILIANS ARE CERTIFIED Other Parties Claim New Cabinet Would Be Bossed By Military Clique

BULLETIN
BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 17—Armed street mobs paraded Buenos Aires demanding the release of Col. Juan D. Peron today as the wave of strikes and terrorism generated by the ex-strong man's arrest overflowed from the suburbs into the capital proper.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 17—A report that another army man will succeed ousted Col. Juan D. Peron as vice-president and denunciation of the government by the powerful Socialist party further confused the Argentine political situation today.

Attorney-General Juan Alvarez nevertheless went ahead with his plans to submit a list of civilians for cabinet ministries to President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell either today or tomorrow. They were expected to be sworn in tomorrow.

The newspaper El Mundo said Gen. Eduardo Avalos, leader of the coup which overthrew "strong man" Peron last week as vice-president, war minister and labor minister, would assume the vice-presidency. He already holds the war portfolio.

Avalos, Farrell and Vice Admiral Hector Varela, leader of the coup which overthrew "strong man" Peron last week as vice-president, war minister and labor minister, would assume the vice-presidency. He already holds the war portfolio.

Thus the military would retain the presidency, the vice-presidency and the two defense ministries while yielding police powers and jurisdiction over elections to Alvarez, proposed interior minister.

It originally had been theorized that a civilian would be appointed vice-president and that Farrell would resign in his favor.

Two other factors added to rising uneasiness in the capital. One was that Peron had not been arrested after all, but merely had been taken into custody for his arrest.

HALSEY GETS S A N FRANCISCO WELCOME TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17—Fighting Adm. William F. Halsey, colorful commander of the 3rd fleet, will be welcomed to Los Angeles today by the city's civic and entertainment forces.

Crowds collected at municipal airport hours before the scheduled arrival of Halsey and his party from San Francisco. Thousands were expected to greet him as he rides down Broadway at the head of a parade.

A full day of celebrating was planned to honor the returning admiral.

The official welcoming party, headed by mayor Fletcher Bowron and Rear Adm. W. L. Friedell, USN, commander of the 11th naval district, will fete Halsey and his party at a victory chest luncheon.

More than 100 Hellcat and Corsair carrier planes will fly over the parade in a salute to the 62-year-old seadog who combined naval surface and air power into an irresistible striking force.

The outspoken naval hero will match wits tonight with comedian Jack Benny, master of ceremonies at a banquet in Halsey's honor at the famous Cocoanut Grove. Others on the evening entertainment program are George Burns and Gracie Allen, Lena Horne, Kathryn Grayson, Dick Haymes, Jack Carson, dancer Ray Bolger and Virginia O'Brien.

Snyder Says 'Take Home' Pay Must Be Increased To Save U. S. Economy

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder warned today that the entire national economy will suffer if labor does not get "more money" to assure a high standard of living.

He did not propose any specific amount of wage increases. But he told a group of Connecticut manufacturers that a large segment of labor had undergone pay cuts of 23 percent since V-J day. Many big labor groups are now demanding 30 percent increases.

In his second major speech in two days on postwar wage policies, Snyder pointed out that wartime prices remain unchanged while thousands of workers, through loss of overtime, were taking home 23 percent less money than they did during the war.

"The take-home price of the essentials of life stays high; the workers' take-home pay has fallen," he said.

"Squeezed in that vise, the worker can do only two things: either he gets more money or he has to reduce his standard of living. With a reduced standard of living, he will buy less, the purchasing power of the market will suffer—and manufacturers will feel it ultimately in reduced orders."

"Our economy is so closely interlocking that no segment can suffer for long without the rest of us feeling the pinch."

On the other hand Snyder warned that pay raises must be judged by "the common-sense question, how much of an increase can the individual company afford and still stay in business?"

"If a company cannot stay in business," he said.

ARMY ABANDONS AIR SEARCH FOR COL. JOHNSON

TOKYO, Oct. 17—The Army today abandoned an air search for Col. Gerald R. Johnson, 25, of Eugene, Ore., a leading Pacific ace, and Lt. James B. Noland of Houston, Tex., pilot and co-pilot respectively of a B-25 bomber missing since October 7 on a flight from Ie island to Atsugi airfield, near Tokyo.

Col. Ernest R. Warburton of Westboro, Mass., noted test pilot who directed the 10-day search, said that an exhaustive sweep of the entire land and sea area where the bomber might have crashed failed to reveal a single clue to its fate. Japanese authorities cooperated in the land hunt.

Johnson and Noland remained in the bomber after four others parachuted to safety in the vicinity of Tokyo, 75 miles southwest of Tokyo, when the plane's radio compass failed and its fuel dwindled to a 25-minute supply. None of those who bailed out was injured.

Johnson was credited with shooting down 24 Japanese planes during the war.

ROBERT CARLE DIES WHEN CAR STRIKES BRIDGE

Death Of Overseas Veteran Believed Instantaneous; Body Is Crushed

FOUND AT 6:40 A. M.

Discovery Not Made Until Several Hours After Fatal Accident

Pfc. Robert Carle, 24, an overseas veteran of route 1, Williamsport, was killed early Wednesday when his car ran into the railing of the Yellowbud creek bridge on Dawson Pike, near the home of his uncle, George Carle, with whom he was living.

He was discovered at 6:40 a. m. by Lawrence Hosler who phoned the sheriff's office at 7 a. m. Deputy Lester Wolford, who investigated, was of the opinion that Pfc. Carle had fallen asleep at the wheel, but a definite cause could not be given under the circumstances. Residents nearby said they heard a crash around 12:30 a. m. but did not investigate at the time.

Pfc. Carle was a veteran of action in Europe. He was entitled to wear the European Theater ribbon with three battle stars, the Good Conduct Medal, three overseas bars and one S V chevron or "hashmark."

He entered the service through the Pickaway county selective service board September 24, 1942. He was home on a furlough which would have expired October 20.

Coroner Lloyd Jones reported that the body was badly crushed after being pushed into the back seat by the bridge railing which smashed through the car, pushing the engine aside. Dr. Jones said that the death must have been instantaneous when the railing hit Pfc. Carle in the abdomen.

He is survived by his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Carle, who were his foster parents, and by his foster sister, Mrs. Francis Carl Bidwell of Jackson township.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at the Hill funeral home in Williamsport, pending the arrival of Army officers to investigate the death.

REDS TO LEAVE SOON, CHINESE LEADER STATES

CHUNGKING, Oct. 17—Withdrawal of Soviet troops from Manchuria will be completed next month, Foreign Minister Wang Shieh-Chieh disclosed today in a preview of Chinese foreign policy.

Chinese troops will be withdrawn from French Indo-China in the near future, Wang also told a press conference.

He said China was willing to send representatives to Siam to discuss anti-Chinese outbreaks there, but will insist that effective measures be taken to protect 3,000,000 Chinese nationals in that country. China will demand punishment of those responsible for recent outbreaks, he said.

BLOND SS GUARD ADMITS BEATING NAZI PRISONERS

LUENBURG, Oct. 17—Blonde Irma Grese, her arrogant defiance turning to rage under a searching cross examination, admitted today that she beat prisoners while she was an SS guard at Nazi concentration camps.

"I have beaten prisoners, but I never mistreated them," Irma finally shouted as Prosecutor Col. T. M. Blackhouse crowded her with questions at the trial of 45 Nazi guards and commandants of the Belsen and Oswiecim camps.

Several times Blackhouse accused her of lying. Sometimes she evaded his questions or snapped "you can think what you like."

She laughed derisively when Blackhouse asked her about using a whip on the prisoners.

'The Big E' Is Home From Wars

'Fightingest' Carrier In The Fleet' Fought At Pearl Harbor

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—The "Big E" came home from the wars today.

The U. S. S. Enterprise, embattled queen of American aircraft carriers, ghosted through the fog into New York harbor shortly after dawn with nine other warships from the Pacific fleet.

A sailor stood in the mists at the battery, and he said: "Well, there she is, boys. There's the old big E."

The "Big E" nudged slowly through the strange, fresh waters of the Hudson river. A Navy blimp sailed down close to her. The carrier's tiny Aldis lamps flickered messages to the speeding patrol craft around her, as if to say: "take it easy, mates. This is my show. This is what I came home for."

The tiny PT boats flickered back: "Go ahead, Big E. Take over."

Because the ship never lived, big or little that could steal much thunder from the famous "old lady."

The 10,000-ton aircraft carrier, Monterey, led the way. The Enterprise rode in second place, with eight other ships trailing along behind her.

HERBERT MELVIN FATALLY HURT

Employee Of Pickaway Grain Dies After Fall Down Elevator Shaft

Herbert C. Melvin, 56, of 411 East Franklin street, died in Berger hospital Tuesday at 10:30 p. m., about seven hours after he had fallen down through the elevator shaft of the Pickaway Grain elevator.

Mr. Melvin fell about 40 feet and suffered a compound fracture of the skull, an injury so serious that it was unusual for a patient to live as long as he did after suffering such an injury.

What caused the fatal accident is unknown. No one saw Mr. Melvin fall and investigation has failed to disclose exactly what happened. He was found by other employees a few minutes after he fell.

Funeral services will be conducted for the accident victim Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran church with the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Friends may call at the home Thursday afternoon. Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Mader funeral home.

LIMITATIONS ON NEWSMEN LIFTED BY MacARTHUR

TOKYO, Oct. 17—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today cancelled a new order that would have limited drastically the number of Allied newsmen permitted in Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

Cancellation of the quota system set up in a directive last Friday followed vigorous protests by American press representatives here and in Washington.

Other provisions of the directive, including the return of newsmen to the status of civilians who must pay for transportation and other items formerly furnished free by the army, will go into effect Oct. 27 as scheduled, however.

Although as many newsmen as now may go to Tokyo, only one army building will be available for billeting them.

FINISHING UP TOUCHES PUT ON EXHIBITS

Beauty Parade Highlight Of Program For First Night Of Show

WINDOWS TO BE JUDGED

Playing Of Chimes To Open Revived Version Of Famed Carnival

The revised version of the famous Circleville Pumpkin Show opens Wednesday night at 7.

Downtown Circleville was a beehive of activity Wednesday as final arrangements were being made at various concessions, rides, exhibits and windows, for the grand reopening of the Show, missing since 1941.

Visitors were promised plenty of entertainment the first day with a free act by Charles Augustus starting off the program right after the playing of chimes in the court house at 7. Augustus will stage his renowned acrobatic act on the trapeze on North Court street.

Also at 7 p. m. window displays will be open to public view and will be judged.

At 7:30 p. m. after the free act, the beauty parade with 14 of Pickaway county's prettiest girls, chosen from county schools parading to the court house steps for judging for the title of Miss Pumpkin Show of 1945, accompanied by the Circleville and Amanda bands is scheduled.

Clarence Helvering, director of the pumpkin exhibit, key exhibit of the Show, was very busy all morning, accepting entries and filling the giant pyramid in the center of the circle in the heart of Circleville with pumpkins.

A pleasant surprise came when W. A. Duvall, of Ashville, pulled his farm truck up to the pumpkin exhibit on West Main street, and unloaded 96 giant pumpkins and squashes for display in the exhibit.

Mr. Duvall entered his two largest pumpkins and squashes in the "largest" class of the contest and the rest in other classes. Huge pumpkins were also entered by Ernest Chester, of Kingston, and Fred Mavis. Many more entries are expected.

Onlookers were amazed when Mayor Ben H. Gordon drove up to the exhibit with red, white, green, black and blue, striped pumpkins, and pumpkins of various other colors which he "had grown."

Many doubted his statement that such pumpkins were "grown naturally in Pickaway county."

A window put in Grant's store by Washington township school depicting all the products of Pickaway county and showing a complete farm continued to attract considerable attention as did an equally unique window in I. W. Kinsey's store, constructed by Salt Creek township school children.

15 ARE KILLED IN RIOTS BY INDONESIAN MOB

BATAVIA, Oct. 17—An official communique said today that Indonesian mobs reportedly killed 15 European men and women last night at the Christian community of Depok as unrest worsened in middle and eastern Java.

Unconfirmed reports also charged that several atrocities were committed by mobs at Depok, the communique said. Most of the remaining European inhabitants were said to have been concentrated in an isolated area by British Indian troops for their safety.

At Rapi, the communique said, Indonesian nationalists imprisoned a British RAF wing commander named Tull and all Dutch and British Red Cross personnel. Tull was released soon afterward.

Food stocks at the Rapi camps will last only another week and Indonesians have forbidden sale of fresh vegetables and fruit to the inmates, the communique said.

All Red Cross personnel also were seized by Indonesians at Semarang, capital of middle Java, and their present whereabouts are not known.

Similar conditions were reported at Magelang and Jogjakarta.

ROBERT CARLE
DIES WHEN CAR
STRIKES BRIDGE

Death Of Overseas Veteran
Believed Instantaneous;
Body Is Crushed

FOUND AT 6:40 A. M.
Discovery Not Made Until Several Hours After
Fatal Accident

Pfc. Robert Carle, 24, an overseas veteran of route 1, Williamsport, was killed early Wednesday when his car ran into the railing of the Yellowbud creek bridge on Dawson Pike, near the home of his uncle, George Carle, with whom he was living.

He was discovered at 6:40 a. m. by Lawrence Hosler who phoned the sheriff's office at 7 a. m. Deputy Lester Wolford, who investigated, was of the opinion that Pfc. Carle had fallen asleep at the wheel, but a definite cause could not be given under the circumstances. Residents nearby said they heard a crash around 12:30 a. m. but did not investigate at the time.

Pfc. Carle was a veteran of action in Europe. He was entitled to wear the European Theater ribbon with three battle stars, the Good Conduct Medal, three overseas bars and one S V chevron or "hashmark."

He entered the service through the Pickaway county selective service board September 24, 1942. He was home on a furlough which would have expired October 20.

Coroner Lloyd Jones reported that the body was badly crushed after being pushed into the back seat by the bridge railing which smashed through the car, pushing the engine aside. Dr. Jones said that the death must have been instantaneous when the railing hit Pfc. Carle in the abdomen.

He is survived by his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Carle, who were his foster parents, and by his foster sister, Mrs. Francis Carl Bidwell of Jackson township. Funeral arrangements were incomplete at the Hill funeral home in Williamsport, pending the arrival of Army officers to investigate the death.

REDS TO LEAVE
SOON, CHINESE
LEADER STATES

CHUNGKING, Oct. 17—Withdrawal of Soviet troops from Manchuria will be completed next month, Foreign Minister Wang Shieh-Chieh disclosed today in a preview of Chinese foreign policy.

Chinese troops will be withdrawn from French Indo-China in the near future, Wang also told a press conference.

He said China was willing to send representatives to Siam to discuss anti-Chinese outbreaks there, but will insist that effective measures be taken to protect 3,000,000 Chinese nationals in that country. China will demand punishment of those responsible for recent outbreaks, he said.

Chinese foreign policy is designed to strengthen unity and harmony among the United Nations and to seek collective security for future world peace, Wang said.

About 850,000 Japanese troops have been disarmed in China thus far, a government spokesman, Dr. P. C. Chang, told newsmen. But 300,000 Japanese remain to be disarmed, he added. He asserted that the percentage of troops disarmed by Chinese Communist forces was "very small."

BLOND SS GUARD
ADMITS BEATING
NAZI PRISONERS

LUENBURG, Oct. 17—Blonde Irma Grese, her arrogant defiance turning to rage under a searching cross examination, admitted today that she beat prisoners while she was an SS guard at Nazi concentration camps.

"I have beaten prisoners, but I never mistreated them," Irma finally shouted as Prosecutor Col. T. M. Blackhouse crowded her with questions at the trial of 45 Nazi guards and commandants of the Belsen and Oswiecim camps.

Several times Blackhouse accused her of lying. Sometimes she evaded his questions or snapped "you can think what you like!" She laughed derisively when Blackhouse asked her about using a whip on the prisoners.

'Fightingest Carrier In The Fleet' Fought At Pearl Harbor

NEW YORK Oct. 17.—The "Big E" came home from the wars today.

The U. S. S. Enterprise, embattled queen of American aircraft carriers, ghosted through the fog into New York harbor shortly after dawn with nine other warships from the Pacific fleet.

A sailor stood in the mists at the battery, and he said: "Well, there she is, boys. There's the old big E."

The "Big E" nudged slowly through the strange, fresh waters of the Hudson river. A Navy blimp sailed down close to her. The carrier's tiny Aldis speed flickered messages to the landing patrol craft around her, as if to say: "take it easy, mates. This is my show. This is what I came home for."

The tiny PT boats flickered back: "Go ahead, Big E. Take over."

Because the ship never lived, big or little that could steal much thunder from the famous "old lady."

The 10,000-ton aircraft carrier, Monterey, led the way. The Enterprise rode in second place, with eight other ships trailing along behind her.

Herbert C. Melvin, 56, of 411 East Franklin street, died in Berger hospital Tuesday at 10:30 p. m., about seven hours after he had fallen down the elevator shaft of the Pickaway Grain elevator.

Mr. Melvin fell about 40 feet and suffered a compound fracture of the skull, an injury so serious that it was unusual for a patient to live as long as he did after suffering such an injury.

What caused the fatal accident is unknown. No one saw Mr. Melvin fall and investigation has failed to disclose exactly what happened. He was found by other employees a few minutes after he fell.

Funeral services will be conducted for the accident victim Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran church with the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Friends may call at the home after Thursday noon. Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Mader funeral home.

LIMITATIONS ON
NEWSMEN LIFTED
BY MacARTHUR

TOKYO, Oct. 17—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today cancelled a new order that would have limited drastically the number of Allied newsmen permitted in Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

Cancellation of the quota system set up in a directive last Friday followed vigorous protests by American press representatives here and in Washington.

Other provisions of the directive, including the return of newsmen to the status of civilians who must pay for transportation and other items formerly furnished free by the army, will go into effect Oct. 27 as scheduled, however.

Although as many newsmen as now may go to Tokyo, only one army building will be available for billeting them.

WINDOWS TO BE JUDGED
Playing Of Chimes To Open
Revived Version Of Famed Carnival

The revised version of the famous Circleville Pumpkin Show opens Wednesday night at 7.

Downtown Circleville was a beehive of activity Wednesday as final arrangements were being made at various concessions, rides, exhibits and windows for the grand reopening of the Show, missing since 1941.

Visitors were promised plenty of entertainment the first day with a free act by Charles Augustus starting off the program right after the playing of chimes in the court house at 7. Augustus will stage his renowned acrobatic act on the trapeze on North Court street.

Also at 7 p. m. window displays will be open to public view and will be judged.

At 7:30 p. m. after the free act, the beauty parade with 14 of Pickaway county's prettiest girls, chosen from county schools parading to the court house steps for judging for the title of Miss Pumpkin Show of 1945, accompanied by the Circleville and Amanda bands is scheduled.

Clarence Helvering, director of the pumpkin exhibit, kept exhibit of the Show, was very busy all morning, accepting entries and filling the giant pyramid in the center of the circle in the heart of Circleville with pumpkins.

A pleasant surprise came when W. A. Duval, of Ashville, pulled his farm truck up to the pumpkin exhibit on West Main street, and unloaded 96 giant pumpkins and squashes for display in the exhibit.

Mr. Duval entered his two largest pumpkins and squashes in the "largest" class of the contest and the rest in other classes. Huge pumpkins were also entered by Ernest Chester, of Kingston, and Fred Davis. Many more entries are expected.

Onlookers were amazed when Mayor Ben H. Gordon drove up to the exhibit with red, white, green, black and blue, striped pumpkins, and pumpkins of various other colors which he "had grown."

Many doubted his statement that such pumpkins were "grown naturally in Pickaway county."

A window put in Grant's store depicting all the products of Pickaway county and showing a complete farm continued to attract considerable attention as did an equally unique window in I. W. Kinsey's store constructed by Salt Creek township school children. (Continued on Page Two)

15 ARE KILLED
IN RIOTS BY INDONESIAN MOB

BATAVIA, Oct. 17—An official communique said today that Indonesian mobs reportedly killed 15 European men and women last night at the Christian community of Depok as unrest worsened in middle and eastern Java.

Unconfirmed reports also charged that several atrocities were committed by mobs at Depok, the communique said. Most of the remaining European inhabitants were said to have been concentrated in an isolated area by British Indian troops for their safety.

At Rapwi, the communique said, Indonesian nationalists imprisoned a British RAF wing commander named Tull and all Dutch and British Red Cross personnel. Tull was released soon afterward.

Food stocks at the Rapwi camps will last only another week and Indonesians have forbidden sale of fresh vegetables and fruit to the inmates, the communique said.

All Red Cross personnel also were seized by Indonesians at Semarang, capital of middle Java, and their present whereabouts are not known.

Similar conditions were reported at Magelang and Jogjakarta.

own protection and presumably may be released at any time.

The other was an announcement by the Buenos Aires university council that it would not resume its activities until police cease shadowing its members.

The strong Socialist party followed the lead of the Union Civica Radical party last night in denouncing the plan to form a new government on grounds that it still would be under the military clique that originally put Peron in power.

Any change would be a change in "name only," the Socialists said. They demanded a complete purge of all Peron elements in the governments and called on Farrell to turn his powers over to the supreme court.

Alvarez was seeking to offset criticism by telling prospects for the civilian cabinet that all civilian members would resign jointly should Farrell, Avalos or Verengo Lima publicly oppose their decisions.

Col. Emilio Ramirez was appointed Buenos Aires police chief yesterday to succeed acting chief Col. Aristobulo Mitchell on demand of democratic elements.

Peron's influence still had not been stamped out completely. His labor supporters called a strike which cut off transport, light and water service in Tucuman province in northern Argentina.

Peronists' efforts to force a similar strike in the Buenos Aires industrial suburb of Avellaneda failed. The government, in a move to discourage any attempt at a general strike, promised workers that they would retain benefits won during the Peron regime.

Avalos revealed officially that Peron was under protective custody of the government, not formal arrest as had been thought. It was explained that protective custody was regarded as necessary for Peron's own safety.

Water Company, City Motions Are Overruled

Motions for a new trial by both parties in the appropriation suit of the city of Circleville against the Ohio Water Service company have been overruled by Judge Earl D. Parker, Pike county, who heard the case by special assignment in June.

The case involves the price the city will have to pay for the water plant property here. The jury which heard the case in common pleas court here set the price at $420,000 at the conclusion of presentation of evidence by the city and utility.

The water company and the city asked for new trials after the verdict was returned.

Snyder Says 'Take Home' Pay Must Be Increased To Save U. S. Economy

business," he said, "obviously it cannot continue to employ workers."

He said the government would have to watch the entire wage-price structure carefully to guard against inflation.

"We cannot bend to the pressures that would tend to ruinous inflation," he declared. "We have come through the years of war with prices and costs kept within reasonable bounds. It would be criminal to give way now."

Hitting the word "reconversion" as "unfortunate," because it contains a sense of going back, the reconversion chief said the government does not intend to go back but "ahead to an economy that will give us more jobs, more peace-time production and bigger markets than we have ever had before."

At the same time he said the government must create "a climate favorable to our system of free enterprise."

"It must be that one part of the economy does not prosper at the expense of another; that small as well as big business gets a chance; that controls over production and distribution, needed during the war, are abolished as soon as they can be."

He said one way the government can help business, agriculture and labor to "get at the job of peace production" is to close out war business. This, he declared, is "just about" accomplished.

He said munitions production, going on at an annual rate of $56,000,000 in the middle of 1945, would be down to an $8,000,000 rate by Jan. 1.

At the end of August, he said, 61 per cent of more than 270,000 war contracts terminated since the start of war production had been settled. "We hope to settle substantially all war contracts by July 1, 1946."

Touching the surplus property phase of reconversion, Snyder revealed that some $5,600,000,000 worth of war property had been declared surplus by Oct. 1. He said so far surpluses costing $647,000,000 had been disposed of for about $344,000,000. He said one of the largest items—$2,373,000,000 worth of "unsalable and condemned aircraft"—will "have to be scrapped."

Reporting on disposal of war plants, he said the government had a surplus of some 1,300 by the end of the war. By Oct. 1, he added, 42 had been sold, 103 leased, negotiations for sale or lease of 64 others were "well advanced," and prospective users were "looking into the possibility of using 463 other plants."

Army authorities said the silver bars would be added to a growing pile of Japanese precious metal and other treasures uncovered throughout the enemy homeland.

Emperor Hirohito, meantime, declared a general amnesty affecting 1,000,000 persons on the occasion of today's harvest festival.

eight small balloons flapped from her masthead.

Sailors gathered along the battery waved when they saw the Monterey pass. They shouted at the men standing on her flight deck. They laughed and talked about her among themselves.

But they only stared quietly at the "Big E". For the big carrier was coming home with a record too obvious for flattery, and she sailed with too many ghosts aboard to cause reckless cheering.

The seamen squinted through the haze and perhaps they remembered shipmates left at Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, or lost in the blood hours for the Santa Cruz islands.

The "Big E" came back to New York with no shouting or bragging. She flew no flag, and only her radar screen stood out in sharp relief behind her superstructure.

There was no cheering from the men who lined her decks. The 20,000 ton carrier had chased the war for more than 275,000 miles and perhaps the crewmen were too tired to get excited.

The "old lady" passed within a few hundred yards of the Statue of Liberty. Many of the Enterprise's crew moved over to the port rail, their caps in hand, but still there was no cheering.

Perhaps they remembered others who couldn't come today. Shipmates like Lt. Cmdr. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare, congressional medal of honor winner, who had disappeared in his plane one night above the carrier in the far reaches of the Pacific.

The old Enterprise could afford to come into harbor quietly, letting a tug push her around. She had a record that could shout for itself.

Her planes and guns shot down 911 Japanese planes, her flares sank 71 ships. They damaged or probably sank another 192.

The Navy calls her the "fighting carrier in the fleet" and she wears 18 of a possible 22 Pacific theater battle stars. The Enterprise was the first carrier to win a presidential citation, which was just the same as having a medal pinned on her bridge.

She was the only carrier to send planes into the fight at Pearl Harbor and to stick it out until the desperate days around Okinawa. She covered the carrier Hornet when Jimmy Doolittle led his B-25's over Tokyo.

She was in there fighting when the Hornet later died beside her on Oct. 26, 1942 in the murderous fighting off Santa Cruz.

The "Big E" was wounded 16 times during the war, but she never struck her flag nor asked for quarter.

So Admiral Frederick C. Sherman brought the famous "workhorse" into the big town quietly today. He let her shipmates do the shouting. The "Big E" remembered her place in naval combat history, and maintained her dignity. She was no youngster to run around beating her chest and bragging.

Many Navy men, women to be freed on points

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Thousands of additional men and women in naval uniform looked forward today to discharges by January 1 as result of newly-announced reductions in Navy discharge point scores.

Effective November 1, the point score for all personnel will be reduced by three points. That will lower the discharge score for enlisted men to 41, for male officers to 46, for enlisted WAVES to 26 and for WAVE officers to 32.

own protection and presumably may be released at any time.

The other was an announcement by the Buenos Aires university council that it would not resume its activities until police cease shadowing its members.

The strong Socialist party followed the lead of the Union Civica Radical party last night in denouncing the plan to form a new government on grounds that it still would be under the military clique that originally put Peron in power.

Any change would be a change in "name only," the Socialists said. They demanded a complete purge of all Peron elements in the governments and called on Farrell to turn his powers over to the supreme court.

Alvarez was seeking to offset criticism by telling prospects for the civilian cabinet that all civilian members would resign jointly should Farrell, Avalos or Vernengo Lima publicly oppose their decisions.

Col. Emilio Ramirez was appointed Buenos Aires police chief yesterday to succeed acting chief Col. Aristobulo Mittelbach on demand of democratic elements.

Peron's influence still had not been stamped out completely. His labor supporters called a strike which cut off transport, light and water service in Tucuman province in northern Argentina.

Peronists' efforts to force a similar strike in the Buenos Aires industrial suburb of Avellaneda failed. The government, in a move to discourage any attempt at a general strike, promised workers that they would retain benefits won during the Peron regime.

Avalos revealed officially that Peron was under protective custody of the government, not formal arrest as had been thought. It was explained that protective custody was regarded as necessary for Peron's own safety.

WATER COMPANY, CITY MOTIONS ARE OVERRULED

Motions for a new trial by both parties in the appropriation suit of the city of Cincinnati against the Ohio Water Service company have been overruled by Judge Earl D. Parker, Pike county, who heard the case by special assignment in June.

The case involves the price the city will have to pay for the water plant property here. The jury which heard the case in common pleas court here set the price at $420,000 at the conclusion of presentation of evidence by the city and utility.

The water company and the city asked for new trials after the verdict was returned.

Snyder Says 'Take Home' Pay Must Be Increased To Save U. S. Economy

business," he said, "obviously it cannot continue to employ workers."

He said the government would have to watch the entire wage-price structure carefully to guard against inflation.

"We cannot bend to the pressures that would tend to ruinous inflation," he declared. "We have come through the years of war with prices and costs kept within reasonable bounds. It would be criminal to give way now."

Hitting the word "reconversion" as "unfortunate," because it contains a sense of going back, the government does not intend to go back but "ahead to an economy that will give us more jobs, more peace-time production and bigger markets than we have ever had before."

At the same time he said the government must create "a climate favorable to our system of free enterprise."

"It must see that one part of the economy does not prosper at the expense of another; that small as well as big business gets a chance; that controls over production and distribution, needed during the war, are abolished as soon as they can be."

He said one way the government can help business, agriculture and labor to "get at the job of peace production" is to close out war business. This, he declared, is "just about" accomplished.

He said munitions production, going on at an annual rate of $56,000,000,000 in the middle of 1945, would be down to an $8,000,000,000 rate by Jan. 1.

At the end of August, he said, 61 per cent of more than 270,000 war contracts terminated since the start of war production had been settled. "We hope to settle substantially all war contracts by July 1, 1946."

Touching the surplus property phase of reconversion, Snyder revealed that some $5,600,000,000 worth of war property had been declared surplus by Oct. 1. He said so far surpluses costing $647,000,000 had been disposed of for about $344,000,000. He said one of the largest items—$2,373,000,000 worth of "unsalable and condemned aircraft"—will "have to be scrapped."

Reporting on disposal of war plants, he said the government had a surplus of some 1,300 by the end of the war. By Oct. 1, he added, 42 had been sold, 103 leased, negotiations for sale or lease of 64 others were "well advanced," and prospective users were "looking into the possibility of using 463 other plants."

opening in a "sit-down" picket line of 500 around Warners. Half a dozen pickets were clubbed and three arrested in a brief but bloody battle before the gate was cleared.

Mounted police patrolled New York's waterfront to guard against possible violence resulting from a split in the ranks of the AFL International Longshoremen's association.

Some 6,000 strikers reported for work yesterday, but 29,000 remained on strike in revolt against Joseph P. Ryan, $20,000-a-year life-term president of the I.L.A.

It was warning that the coal situation was "bad and getting worse" came after the interior secretary had met with President Truman over methods of combating the growing fuel shortage. It was said after the White House conference that he had outlined a proposition to the President but could not expound on it at that time.

Production of steel, backbone of the reconversion effort, nosedived as coal supplies dwindled. Spokesmen for the U. S. Steel Corp. said 15,000 employees had been laid off in its Pittsburgh plants and operations had been reduced to 25 per cent of capacity.

U. S. Steel said its Chicago output would be cut to 25 per cent of normal by Friday, with layoffs affecting 30,000 workers, if the coal famine continued.

FAYETTE DRAFT BOARD RETAINS NO DRAFT RULE

WASHINGTON, C. H., Oct. 17.—The Fayette county draft board stood firm today on its decision to refuse to induct any more men into the armed services until the federal government settles the national strike problem.

The board voted last night to stand by its decision of a week ago. Members said they had the support of many citizens who had written or telegraphed approval of their stand.

(At Columbus, a selective service headquarters spokesman said the problem was "being studied." He would not say what action was contemplated.)

The board chairman, Howard D. Fogle, is a farmer and former grocer here, a World War I veteran and active American Legion worker. Other members include, banker Arch Ribber, Dr. S. B. Smith, a dentist, druggist L. M. Hayes, and Ray Maynard, department store manager.

MILLIONS ASKED FOR DEATHS IN CLEVELAND FIRE

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—Damage suits totaling $5,075,000 were filed in federal court yesterday arising from the Cleveland gas explosion and fire of Oct. 20, 1944, in which 56 persons were killed.

Suits were asked for amounts ranging from $25,000 to $100,000 for the deaths of 56 in the disaster. Named as defendants were two Neville Island, Pa., firms which allegedly designed and constructed a storage tank for liquid gas which exploded. They were the Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel company, its partners, John E. Jackson and Ruth H. Jackson, of Neville Island, and Amos Pearsall, of Des Moines, Ia. The Pittsburgh-Des Moines company, Inc., an affiliate, was also named.

The firm which supplied the gas was not listed as a defendant.

Attorney Charles E. C. Arensberg filed notice in common pleas court that 36 similar actions for $100,000 each against the same defendants will be taken in that court.

DUEY ON PROBATION
William S. Duey whose sentence on August 4 on a non-support charge was postponed, has been placed on two-year probation and directed to pay $8 per week for support of two of his children in the Children's Home, by common pleas court.

number from the Osaka Imperial mint.

Army authorities said the silver bars would be added to a growing pile of Japanese precious metal and other treasures uncovered throughout the enemy homeland.

Emperor Hirohito, meantime, declared a general amnesty affecting 1,000,000 persons on the occasion of today's harvest festival.

It includes a reduction in prison terms for 37,000 persons, restoration of civil rights to 600,000 and a special amnesty for 320,000 not covered by the provisions of the general amnesty.

The action restored civil rights to recently-released Communists. Well-informed Japanese quarters said Hirohito was motivated by a desire to permit as many Japanese as possible to participate in forthcoming general elections.

The newspaper Yomiuri Hochi said at least four of Japan's main industrial combines were preparing to dissolve in compliance with orders from Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He charged that all had financed and exploited Japanese military conquests.

French Fail To Work With Allies

cussions, but if the French persist in their stand it is likely that Britain, Russia and the United States might form joint zone policies and operate along parallel lines.

At present, decisions of the four-power Allied control council in Berlin must be unanimous. But if negotiations break down, the British, Americans and Soviets might make individual but identical decisions to get around the impasse.

The only other course would be to refer occupation problems to the council of foreign ministers, where unanimity might be even more difficult to attain than in the control council.

It can be said generally that British and American policies in their respective zones are very similar. The Russians, who occupy roughly two-fifths of Germany, have gone farther than any of the other Allies in granting self-administration to the Germans.

The Soviets also work more closely with established administrative bodies that were functioning when they took over. In many cases, the Russians are accepting, at least for the present, a number of minor Nazi officials. The top Nazi figures in the Russian zone already have been "taken care of."

In most cases, the Russians have withdrawn from their occupation zone the combat troops who fought their way across Germany to Berlin and who often settled on the spot long-standing scores they had for burning, pillaging and rapine carried out by the Nazis on Russian soil.

Latest reports from the Soviet zone indicate the Russians are more orderly now and that top Russian authorities are anxious to see Germany restored as an economic whole, although with the strictest possible control of industry and other phases of German life which might be used to rebuild the Nazi war machine.

The attitudes of British, Russian and American officials are so similar in many instances that some Americans believe the existing occupation zone boundaries might be removed by next Summer.

American leaders such as Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy, are working constantly toward greater freedom of movement within Germany, but it is expected the French will offer vigorous opposition to any abolition of the zone boundaries.

WITNESSES TELL HOW NAZIS KILLED SURVIVORS

HAMBURG, Oct. 17.—Witnesses testified today in the trial of five German U-boat crewmen that survivors clinging to the wreckage of the Greek ship Peleus in the south Atlantic were machine-gunned or run down by the Nazi submarine which sank her.

The Peleus went down in March, 1944. With its searchlight picking out victims for bullets and grenades, witnesses said, the submarine charged into the wreckage under orders to erase all trace of the ship and crew.

'The Big E' Is Home From Wars

Sailors gathered along the battery waved when they saw the Monterey pass. They shouted at the men standing on her flight deck. They laughed and talked about her among themselves.

But they only stared quietly at the "Big E". For the big carrier was coming home with a record too obvious for flattery, and she sailed with too many ghosts aboard to cause reckless cheering. The seamen squinted through the haze and perhaps they remembered shipmates left at Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, or lost in the blood hours for the Santa Cruz Islands.

The "Big E" came back to New York with no shouting or bragging. She flew no flag, and only her radar screen stood out in sharp relief behind her superstructure.

There was no cheering from the men who lined her decks. The 20,000-ton carrier had chased the war for more than 275,000 miles and perhaps the crewmen were too tired to get excited.

The "old lady" passed within a few hundred yards of the Statue of Liberty. Many of the Enterprise's crew moved over to the port rail, their caps in hand, but still there was no cheering.

Perhaps they remembered others who couldn't come today. Shipmates like Lt. Cmdr. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare, congressional medal of honor winner, who had disappeared in his plane one night above the carrier in the far reaches of the Pacific.

The old Enterprise could afford to come into harbor quietly, letting a tug push her around. She had a record that could shout for itself.

Her planes and guns shot down 911 Japanese planes, her fliers sank 71 ships. They damaged or probably sank another 192.

The Navy calls her the "fighting carrier in the fleet" and she wears 18 of a possible 22 Pacific theater battle stars. The Enterprise was the first carrier to win a presidential citation, which was just the same as having a medal pinned on her bridge.

She was the only carrier to send planes into the fight at Pearl Harbor and to stick it out until the desperate days around Okinawa. She covered the carrier Hornet when Jimmy Doolittle led his B-25's over Tokyo.

She was in the fighting when the Hornet later died beside her on Oct. 26, 1942 in the murderous fighting off Santa Cruz.

The "Big E" was wounded 16 times during the war, but she never struck her flag nor asked for quarter.

So Admiral Frederick C. Sherman brought the famous "workhorse" into the big town quietly today. He let her shipmates do the shouting. The "Big E" remembered her place in naval combat history, and maintained her dignity. She was no youngster to run around beating her chest and bragging.

MANY NAVY MEN, WOMEN TO BE FREED ON POINTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Thousands of additional men and women in naval uniform looked forward today to discharges by January 1 as result of newly-announced reductions in Navy discharge point scores.

Effective November 1, the point score for all personnel will be reduced by three points. That will lower the discharge score for enlisted men to 41, for male officers to 46, for enlisted WAVES to 26 and for WAVES officers to 32.

MEN'S SHAPES FAIL TO CHANGE DURING WARTIME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Style experts agree that American men haven't changed their shapes much during the war but disagree on whether their clothing tastes have altered.

The style committee of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers talked things over and concluded that the "radical change" in men's physiques predicted by some stylists had failed to take place, partly because the Army was mechanized rather than "goose-stepping."

However, the experts didn't see eye to eye when it came to the question of whether G. I.'s who have been forced to wear plain khaki and blue for years will want to blossom out in "bold patterns" in the future.

Eight foresaw a trend to bold patterns; eight said it was doubtful, three were certain conservative trends would win most favor. They differed again on whether men who have been divorced from vests during the war will take to wearing them again. Eleven said yes. Eight said no.

'UNCLE TOM' PLAY BANNED BY SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 17—A stage presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," adapted from the Civil War novel instrumental in abolishing slavery, was banned today in the city where Abraham Lincoln was buried.

An order cancelling two performances scheduled for next Monday was issued last night at the request of the Springfield chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on the grounds the play was "derogatory to the welfare of the Negro race."

Mayor John W. Kapp issued the order after NAACP representatives presented him with a resolution criticizing Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous novel because "it pictures the Negro as an illiterate, irresponsible person and would inflame anti-Negro sentiment."

The group charged the play was to have been staged here as part of a propaganda campaign to hold the Negro race up to ridicule. The play recently was banned in Bridgeport, Conn., over the protests of the Bridgeport Committee on Unity, Friendship and Amity and the Bridgeport Pastors association.

MEN'S SHAPES FAIL TO CHANGE DURING WARTIME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Style experts agree that American men haven't changed their shapes much during the war but disagree on whether their clothing tastes have altered.

The style committee of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers talked things over and concluded that the "radical change" in men's physiques predicted by some stylists had failed to take place, partly because the Army was mechanized rather than "goose-stepping."

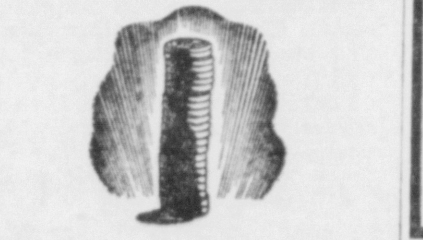

However, the experts didn't see eye to eye when it came to the question of whether G. I.'s who have been forced to wear plain khaki and blue for years will want to blossom out in "bold patterns" in the future.

Eight foresaw a trend to bold patterns; eight said it was doubtful, three were certain conservative trends would win most favor. They differed again on whether men who have been divorced from vests during the war will take to wearing them again. Eleven said yes. Eight said no.

DENVER—The Colorado Secretary of State, Walter F. Morrison, has taken up the cause of wives who would like to know where hubby spends his spare time.

Morrison is pushing a program to allow only 620 square inches of advertising on the outside of taverns. There's no reason, says Morrison, why beer guzzlers should have to hide behind glaring neon signs and posters.

ELYRIA, O.—John Skok made his own "atom bomb." He filled a piece of iron pipe with heads meticulously broken off 200 matches. But as he was screwing a plug onto the pipe, the bomb exploded. His left hand was badly shattered.

NATURAL RICHES

THE President's recent dedication of the Tennessee dam, latest unit of the Tennessee Valley Authority group, is another good example of utilizing the hitherto neglected wealth scattered around this rich country. He emphasizes what he calls the "plain common sense" of such public enterprises, and speaks hopefully of converting other water sheds into reservoirs of power. Every new undertaking of this kind emphasizes the riches of the nations in forms hitherto unused, and the widespread benefit of turning flood and drought areas to both public and private purposes.

Obviously this is still a very young country, with possibilities of power, agriculture, mining and forestry hardly grasped yet by most Americans. Its development is really a never-ending job, with all such triumphs over nature there are opened new vistas of rich public and private wealth, hitherto latent and unappreciated.

NITTI HEARD FROM

TWENTY years of exile and two as a prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp would dampen the average statesman's interest in a political career. Not so with Francesco Nitti, however. The former Italian premier is now trying to create a new party, the "National Union for Reconstruction", which will stress close cooperation with the United States and Great Britain and opposition to communism.

Nitti came to office in 1919, succeeding Vittorio Orlando, the Italian premier at the Paris peace conference. Orlando had concentrated all his efforts on gaining the Adriatic port of Fiume, making only perfunctory efforts to benefit Italy in other ways. When he fell because of his failure to get Fiume, Nitti succeeded him, and pursued a liberal policy. Unfortunately his ideas were better than his ability to carry them out, and he lasted only a year. When Mussolini seized power, Nitti was bold enough to oppose him, and consequently found it healthier to flee to France.

Nitti is now 77, and therefore unlikely to do anything spectacular in what remains of his life. But the Italians would be better off today if they had followed Nitti, and not Orlando and Mussolini.

Hitler would have remained a comic figure, former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., reminds Americans, if German heavy industry had not financed his path to power. As Morgenthau put it, "Heavy industry enabled a man born for slapstick comedy to convert himself into Wagnerian tragedy."

Another searching problem of the day is, how do you convert a bottle neck?

Women Showing Signs
Of More Independence

How Many War Workers
Will Return to Dishes?

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—There is a lot of complicated talk about what war working women will do now that the rush is over. Will the girls rush into the home half way left behind them? And settle into morning dish washing and afternoon bridge? Will such occupations be more entertaining than taking dictation and answering the boss' call?

The answer to these questions is anybody's guess. But there are certain signs of free or independent thinking by women that I would pay strict attention to if I were superior male.

The most astonishing sign is the behavior of wives who, having married a second time when they believed their first husbands had been killed in battle, suddenly discover the first husbands are still alive.

Do these dear little women shiver with fright? Do they crawl under the bed or hide in the closet as the World War II Enoch Ardens confront them in the flesh?

Not these little women! They are not afraid of possible avenging shotguns. Or even of disapproving courts.

They say simply, with mascaraed tears in their big innocent eyes: "I love both my husbands. Later I'll make up my mind which one I'll take."

Look out for the woman of 1945. She is terrific. She is going to do what suits her about jobs or anything else.

Kipling would have been afraid to call her "the female deadlier than the male."

THE FOOD SITUATION is certainly better than it was a year ago. But it could be better still. (Sorry, England again.)

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—This is such a tale as might have appealed to O. Henry—how a simple, poignant Christmas story by a modest newspaper writer was brought to life by ballet dancers, dressed by a noted designer, in that great, tiered, glittering auditorium called the Metropolitan opera house. And how, in the doing, much of its poignancy and simplicity were lost and the author wandered into the night, reflecting on what a wonderful medium of expression is the written word.

All of this happened at the Met last night; all, that is, except the exit of the reflecting author. For the writer whose work has turned over to the foot-actors was O. Henry himself, dead these 35 years. Of course, if you believe in ghosts, there was that rush of chill wind that passed the first drifters into the lobby after the curtain and didn't even pause to accept a return check from the ticket-taker as it went through the door.

The O. Henry story which the ballet theater presented for the first time is "The Gift of the Magi," a piece which he reputedly dashed off in an hour or so one night when his editor was pressing him for copy. The ballet retains the story title.

For a ballet, it is elaborate scenically, with sets designed by the colorful Raoul Pene Dubois, who also designed the turn-of-the-century costumes. The curtain rises on a city street scene, with a Christmas eve snow falling. After some footwork by passerbys the center section of the set is "flown" to reveal the flat of Dela and Jim, danced by Nora Kaye and John Kriza.

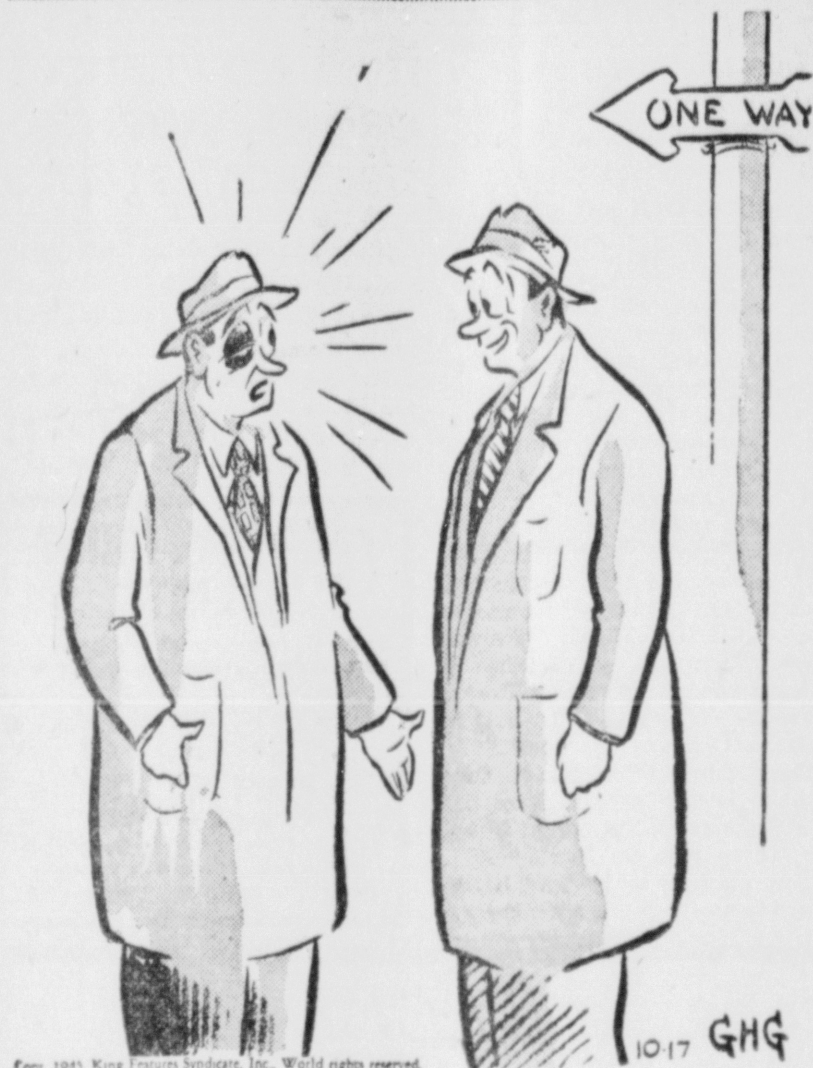

Then follows some marital dance work and Jim dons coat, hat and a red muffler big enough to use for a blanket and exits. Dela, too, is soon in the street on an errand. She looks up a hairdressing shop where they pay a good price for such long locks as hers. She needs the money to buy Jim a Christmas present. Meanwhile, Jim goes to a pawnshop to barter his cherished watch for a gift for Dela. They return home to surprise each other with the gifts—an ornate comb for Dela's no-longer luxurious tresses and a chain for Jim's non-existent watch. The ballet ends with the two standing looking out of the window at the Christmas snow.

Simon Semenoff conceived and created the ballet. The story was suggested to him a year or so ago by an acquaintance and he determined to do it after he read the story in a book given him as a gift last Christmas. The score was composed especially for this ballet by 23-year-old Lukas Foss, who was born in Berlin and who has been something of a musical prodigy.

The boyish-looking composer, with a shock of light brown hair, conducted the orchestra Monday night. He took three bows with the performers. It was not a score that sent you out of the place humming.

There was one thing about the ballet typical of the New York about which O. Henry wrote so much and so well—the melting pot nature of those concerned: Foss, German; Semenoff, Latvian; Kriza, Czech ancestry; Majorie Tallchief, American Indian; Dubois, French ancestry; Miss Kaye, Russian ancestry. That, O. Henry would have liked.

Controlled Activity In Convalescence

By HERMAN N. RUNDEN, M. D.
SOME fifty years ago the late eminent Doctor Silas Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia introduced a rest cure for the treatment of certain nervous disorders, and this treatment has influenced medical practice for this entire period of time. Nowadays, army physicians have realized the importance of rapidly restoring sick and disabled men to duty and, following Dr. Mitchell's idea, have developed programs which have revolutionized the use of physical and mental rest.

According to Doctor Frank H. Krusen of the Mayo Clinic, programs of physical and mental activity tend to keep patients in a much more cheerful mental state and, furthermore, tend to lessen the period of disease and the tendency to recurrence of the disease.

Convalescence Reduced
Some reports from Air Forces hospitals showed that the period of convalescence in certain acute catching diseases has been reduced from 30 to 40 per cent by these programs. One hospital reported a reduction from 18 to 11 days of hospitalization for patients with measles, and a drop from 30 to 23 days for patients with scarlet fever.

A study of more than 600 patients with a certain type of pneumonia showed that one group convalescing in the ordinary manner with continued rest averaged 45 days in the hospital, while for those given the mental and physical activity the period was reduced to 31 days. There was a recurrence of the condition in 30 per cent of the patients who were treated with rest, and in only 8 per cent of the patients who were kept active.

According to Doctor Krusen, there are but few patients who die of heart failure alone, without complications. The three great causes of death among patients who also have heart failure are the formation of a blood clot in the lungs, pneumonia, and a kidney disturbance called uremia. He thinks that these conditions are more likely to develop under a state of complete rest and might be prevented by mild muscular activity.

It would appear, then, that excessive rest may be almost as harmful as too much activity. It is the middle ground that must be considered. Each patient is carefully studied by the doctor and the amount of effort he is allowed to exert during his period of convalescence is determined by his condition.

Patients who have had an operation cannot be told to go home and return to work when they feel "strong enough." Rather, they must be observed throughout the period of recovery, and their activities controlled to bring about complete recovery as quickly as possible.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. W.: Could a cataract be caused by an injury or the physical condition of the individual? Does it come on suddenly or just gradually?

Answer: Injuries may produce cataracts. There are certain general disorders such as diabetes which may be accompanied by cataracts. As a general rule they develop gradually.

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE
WHEN MRS. FENNIMORE told Sandra that Spenser's father was in Washington the girl was so startled she could not hold back a gasp. "Not really?"

"Careful, dear," came the older woman's voice in her ear. The girl glanced toward the group about the breakfast room table. They seemed impervious, interested only in more popovers and strawberry jam. Even so, she wished she dared go to the living room or upstairs extension. But that would act as a strong vitamin treatment on Spenser's curiosity and ensuing suspicion.

Sandra managed indifference. "You may tell me about the organization's plans if you wish and I'll let you know my decision." She jammed the receiver against her ear to deaden Mrs. Fennimore's words.

"He telephoned me from Washington. He doesn't want Spenser to know, because something could go wrong at the last moment, but he intends to fly out and visit him." "Um," said Sandra. She intended to sound like an affable acknowledgment of her caller's information but, to her own ears, it sounded more like a groan.

"He didn't even want me to tell you. But I couldn't let you in for such a surprise." She herself groaned now. "Oh, Sandra, if I were the sort of woman who collapses, I'd have collapsed when I heard his voice and learned he was in Washington. He's meeting some Biggies there. You know, my dear, that little boy is from quite a family, both in rank and money. Oh, dear, when I think of the way he is living—" Again she rambled. "Maybe he'll not have time to get out west."

"Oh, but that—" Sandra let her words die. "Um," she said again. "I know what you wanted to say. It seems wicked to hope for such a thing, doesn't it? Well, blast it all, as Spenser would say, he wanted the boy to have an American life and that's what he is having—still, not many American boys are in pictures, are they?"

"Um," said Sandra. "Don't let him know I telephoned you. I'll try to call again and give you the definite date. Just do your best, dear and—I'll remember," she stammered, "I'll stand back of you."

But would that do much good, Sandra wondered, as she made her way back to the table. For once, in her experience, Mrs. Fennimore was rattled and it was disquieting.

Spenser was the only curious one. Even so, he did not stop buttering a popover when he asked: "Who?"

"A charity, begging. I'll investigate it first."

So the awkward moment passed. Outwardly, at any rate. But for Sandra it was worse than awkward.

wardness. As the hours went by it became a time of stress.

She tried to imagine everything through the eyes of Spenser's father. How would old Brody look to him? And outspoken Belinda? What would he think about the studio life and the change in Spenser? What would he think of Bob Wakeman, especially if he came bounding in for lunch, so familiarly, as he had today? Oh, maybe Bob would have to get back to Chicago before Spenser's father could get to the coast.

Above all others, the one thought whirling in her brain was: What will he think of me?

On Monday, with Belinda back in school and Spenser at the studio, Sandra tried to think out her predicament. It had taken quite a pretense of headache tablets and cold cloths on the brow to get Spenser off by himself. But now the house was quiet.

Sandra put on a dressing gown of chartreuse silk and slipped down the back stairs. The cook was in the kitchen. She, even if Belinda term her Crinkle-Puss, looked capable and very neat in her gray uniform and freshly laundered cap and apron. Surely not even Spenser's father could find anything the matter with her.

"Good morning, Alta," she called out, trying to sound slightly indisposed, but broken hearted.

"Good morning, Miss Edwards. Sit down at the breakfast table. I'm just making fresh coffee."

She served it soon, with thin whole wheat toast and a glass of pineapple juice. "Alta," said the girl, "I want you to find us an upstairs maid. We're having company. There'll be extra work."

While she still was talking, Brody came in from the service porch. He walked over and sat down. "I don't like that, ma'am. When you first came to the Mesa, quite you was nice enough to do your own work. I'll do the same here."

It dawned on Sandra that her conversation about company meant only one person. Himself.

She said gently: "Oh, we need someone besides Alta, Brody. We have talked about getting an extra servant."

The old fellow was adamant. "You don't need 'em if I do my part."

Sandra put her hand over the old man's. It felt dry and rough to her touch, like a corn husk. "Brody, I wasn't talking about you. I shouldn't tell you this but, woman-like, I'm going to do it anyway."

She shivered faintly. "I'm so worried."

So she told him, knowing Alta was listening, but not caring. She was so desperate that nothing mattered.

Brody did not speak for a while. Finally he muttered: "Worry never helped nobody."

"You worried about Belinda," Sandra reminded sharply.

"But you ain't worrying about Spenser so much as you're just worrying about yourself. And I swear I can't understand why. When Spenser's father looks at you he'll see about the prettiest, finest girl in the world. This house is about like heaven. The boy has grown and looks fine. Even acts nice a lot of the time."

"He may not think all the wonderful things about me that you do, Brody."

"What if he doesn't? You haven't got time to make no changes by the time he'd get here, anyway. So let's just play checkers or something, while we sit waiting for Mrs. Fennimore's telephone call. When Spenser's father gets here, just don't talk too much and hop around all the time like so many females do. You just find you a soft chair and get in it and stay there."

"He might—" The words crawled into Sandra's throat and refused to go farther. "He might make Spenser—he might make him peek out the window and determine the reason for their being serenaded by a siren. A motorcycle cop stopped directly before the house; then a long black limousine slid in back of it."

They did not attempt to come into the driveway, so Sandra and Brody had several seconds to watch them before they suddenly discovered the driveway and made a second arrival. Mrs. Fennimore, for some reason, had not been able to telephone. For here was Spenser's father. Sandra knew it, just as she knew it was Thursday afternoon and the cook was gone.

Never, in her worst nightmares, had she pictured the arrival of Spenser's father in a more fantastic fashion. It was awful. Even Brody looked flabbergasted and helpless.

Sandra had expected Spenser's father to wear tweeds. But he was slim and—yes—Spenser had been right about the Withington men—dapper, in a dark suit, a white starched collar and a necktie the same shade as his blue eyes.

She knew that, for now she was answering his ring and looking right into his eyes. They were tired, but still held the same arrogant twinkle as Spenser's.

He bowed politely, without much enthusiasm, as he said: "I'm Spenser's father." He straightened suddenly, really looked at Sandra for the first time. He stared, in fact, as if he were in a trance and glimpsing a vision.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, October 17

ALTHOUGH this may prove to be a very lively and interesting day with much stirring about with mental activity as well as physical energy pitched to high purpose and accomplishment, yet there may be several situations or complications to perplex and negative the most strenuous and ambitious efforts. New contracts, agreements and associations are probable, with travel, change, new propositions or deals in which straightforward and honest agreements succeed.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and interesting year in which change, travel, new associations as well as fresh and attractive proposals or opportunities are alluring and thrilling. However, there are several petty or trivial complications or perplexities in which adaptability, keen insight, together with direct action and honest purpose should win out against dubious situations. New contracts, writings, publicity, correspondence, should be carefully checked.

A child born will have much versatility and adaptability, a keen mind and physical energies, which promise success and a lively career, if soundly maneuvered.

"The Authority on Authorities"

USING THE QUEEN FIRST

ORDINARILY, if you have a guarded queen opposite a guarded ace, your best play is to take the top card first and lead toward the secondary one, as that protects you against losing to a singleton king. The usual exception to this is when the queen has only a single guard, when your normal chance for a trick with it comes from playing toward it on the first round. There is one other exception, however. It is better to lead first toward even a doubly-guarded queen if the ace is required as a later re-entry to the hand which possesses it.

It happens that East and West can take eleven tricks at either red suit, for a very easy game, but they were not keen enough bidders to realize it. Actually they were lucky to score anything at all, for only had play by South beat the spade game which he could have made.

The heart A was scored and the 6 led for South to ruff with the spade 2. The spade A, Q and K

It's Zadok Dunkopf who is again dragging out his annual autumnal argument—that the tree leaves should be left on the lawn removed the defenders' trumps, leaving South just one, the 10-spot. This he made his mistake. Books had taught him that with a suit like the clubs, he should take the A first, then lead toward the Q, which he did. West came in with the K on the second club and made a sound defensive play, returning the heart J, which East overtook with the Q. That play cooked South's goose. He ruffed with his last spade, led to the club Q and then realized he was blocked from using the rest of his clubs. Locked in the dummy, he had to lose three more tricks, so was down two.

After taking out spades, South should have led a small club toward the Q. Then it would have made no difference what West did. The A would have been a third-round entry for the clubs. And, if West after winning with his club K, returned a heart before leading a diamond, his side would get no diamond trick, but South would make an overtrick.

148 Women Present For Club Conference Here

Monday Club Host To Delegations From District

Beautiful Autumn weather welcomed guests to Circleville Tuesday for the annual South East district conference of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs which convened in the Grand theatre for which the local Monday club was host.

A report from the registration committee of which Mrs. Sterling Lamb was chairman shows 148 women registered for the conference, representing clubs in 13 South Eastern Ohio counties.

Mrs. Ray W. Davis, district president called the meeting to order at 9 a. m. and received the report of the secretary, Mrs. Robert Adkins, president of the Monday club, then greeted the guests and welcomed them to Circleville.

During the morning session the vice president's message was brought by Mrs. C. E. M. Finney, Springfield, and Mrs. Leo W. Schmidt, Cleveland, gave the treasurer's report, "This Job of Being Secretary" was given by Mrs. Floyd A. Dewey, Toledo.

"A club presidents round table" was held when the discussion of work done by the various clubs of the district comprised the one hour allotted to that part of the program.

Mrs. L. L. Kinsey, Akron, state chairman of conservation, spoke on "The Living Memorial Forest." The forest is located in the beautiful Mohican Valley, very near the center of the state. It is located on state route 97 just west of the intersection of State route 3, about 4 miles from Loudenville and directly across the highway from the Mohican Forest park.

This forest is a state-wide memorial for all Ohio men and women who have died in the service of their country during World War I.

The state legislature has passed a bill authorizing the acquisition of 3500 acres of beautiful rolling hills that were once covered with forests but has been cut over and is now unsuited for agriculture.

About 200 acres have been set aside to be planted in a forest. This planting is being sponsored by the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs. Already the junior clubs of Ohio have subscribed to the placing of a flag pole and a base for the tablet which will be dedicated along with the land next Tuesday. At this time the first tree will be planted. It is expected that the entire work will be completed within the year and it will then be turned over to the state as a memorial.

At the conclusion of the talk by Mrs. Kinsey a rising vote of thanks was given the state president, the South East district president, and to Mrs. Kinsey for their work in securing the aid of the State legislature to establish this memorial forest.

In connection with the War Bond drive, Lt. E. M. Body, liaison officer at Fort Hayes, introduced Lt. Sally Durrett, Army nurses' corps who spoke on post-war costs.

The following hour was occupied with talks from the district chairmen. Reporting were, Mrs. D. B. Green, Athens on crime prevention and control; Mrs. H. M. Woods, Athens, motion pictures; Mrs. Clyde Hines, Athens, consumer responsibility; Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Circleville, on adult education; Mrs. O. E. Hearing, Perry county, character education; Mrs. Homer Ridenour, Lancaster, fine arts, literature; Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, Circleville, international relations; Mrs. Milton Gardner, Proctorville, post-war planning; Mrs. E. M. Foulk, New Lexington, public and home safety; Mrs. Henry S. Lewis, Circleville, federation extension and organization; Mrs. Richard Horan, Elyria, state chairman of Junior clubs; Mrs. C. C. Schwartz, Portsmouth, Annette Phelps Lincoln loan scholarship; Mrs. J. M. Henderson, Martins Ferry, State and general federation plans.

A letter was read from Mrs. LaFell, Dickinson, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs asking for playing cards for service men. Mrs. Goldthorpe also spoke briefly on the new publication of the history of the Ohio federation.

A luncheon at the Elks club was served at 1 p. m. and was preceded by the group reading the club collect in unison. Mrs. Carl Kennedy asked the grace. No planned program had been made for the luncheon but distinguished guests were informally introduced. Among these was Mrs. Howard Jones, a pioneer in the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs who told a few incidents of early club work.

The afternoon session was opened by the singing of a group of Gypsy songs by the members of the Monday club chorus, directed by Mrs. James P. Moffitt. An invitation was extended from the Lancaster federation to hold the 1946 conference there. The invitation was accepted.

Mrs. C. J. Goldthorpe, Youngstown, state president delivered "Our Presidents Message". Although the war is over, Mrs. Goldthorpe told her audience, the long battle for peace has just begun. Peace is a fragile matter and women must work as hard for peace as they did toward the cessation of war. Peace is especially women's business. Mrs. Goldthorpe said, and the main reason for women's clubs is the moulding of public opinion through study groups and forums. Women can help to make the Charter a reality, she said.

Quoting Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, she said "People must cease being anti-British and anti-Russian. We must spend our time instead, in trying to rehabilitate the world. Unless we send food to the starving people of Europe there can be no peace." She also stressed the importance of youth guidance programs as an aid to future peace by providing good world citizens. Nothing, she said, pays larger dividends in human values.

State Senator E. E. Addison, Columbus was the next speaker on the program who spoke to the conference on "Post-war Problems and Personalities in State Legislation."

He said in part that our State well illustrates the fact that people can govern themselves well and that the two party system is a success. The State, he said, has a post war program for health and welfare work with plans for a public work building project, if there isn't reasonable full employment, and for tax reduction too as soon as possible.

In placing noted personalities, in state legislation, he named Governor Lausche, Frazier Reams, head of welfare department, Robert Secrist, Senator Huffman, former governor John W. Bricker, Thomas Herbert, Senator Robert A. Taft, and William McCullough as a good array from which to choose when election time comes around.

The Monday Club Chorus sang another group of gypsy songs, which was followed by a talk by Mrs. Karl King, Bryan, Northwest district president who talked on "The Club-Woman of Today." Mrs. King mentioned several types of club women which clubs do not need and gave an amusing illustration of one in a telephone conversation. Women today, Mrs. King said, are facing the greatest responsibility they have ever faced. There are four things they must do: They must have faith, they must restore the authority of truth, they must help to recover our moral consciousness and put aside lust for power. Future generations she said, will profit from this.

The last speaker on the program was Mrs. C. N. Chrisman of Dayton, whose subject was "Building a World Charter". Mrs. Chrisman gave a very interesting account of her trip to the San Francisco conference. She attended the Auxiliary meeting as a consultant. The important questions that came up in plenary sessions were brought to these auxiliary meetings by representatives like Anthony Edon and John Foster

Monday Club Host To Delegations From District

Beautiful Autumn weather welcomed guests to Circleville Tuesday for the annual South East district conference of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs which convened in the Grand theatre for which the local Monday club was host.

A report from the registration committee of which Mrs. Sterling Lamb was chairman shows 148 women registered for the conference, representing clubs in 13 South Eastern Ohio counties.

Mrs. Ray W. Davis, district president called the meeting to order at 9 a. m. and received the report of the secretary, Mrs. Robert Adkins, president of the Monday club, then greeted the guests and welcomed them to Circleville.

During the morning session the vice president's message was brought by Mrs. C. E. M. Finney, Springfield and Mrs. Leo W. Schmidt, Cleveland, gave the treasurer's report. "This Job of Being Secretary" was given by Mrs. Floyd A. Dewey, Toledo.

"A club presidents round table" was held when the discussion of work done by the various clubs of the district comprised the one hour allotted to that part of the program.

Mrs. L. L. Kinsey, Akron, state chairman of conservation, spoke on "The Living Memorial Forest."

The forest is located in the beautiful Mohican Valley, very near the center of the state. It is located on state route 97 just west of the intersection of State route 3, about 4 miles from Loudenville and directly across the highway from the Mohican Forest park.

This forest is a state-wide memorial for all Ohio men and women who have died in the service of their country during World War I.

The state legislature has passed a bill authorizing the acquisition of 3500 acres of beautiful rolling hills that were once covered with forests but has been cut over and is now unsuited for agriculture.

About 200 acres have been set aside to be planted in a forest. This planting is being sponsored by the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. Already the junior clubs of Ohio have subscribed to the placing of a flag pole and a base for the tablet which will be dedicated along with the land next Tuesday. At this time the first tree will be planted. It is expected that the entire work will be completed within the year and it will then be turned over to the state as a memorial.

At the conclusion of the talk by Mrs. Kinsey a rising vote of thanks was given the state president, the South East district president, and to Mrs. Kinsey for their work in securing the aid of the State legislature to establish this memorial forest.

In connection with the War Bond drive, Lt. E. M. Body, liaison officer at Fort Hayes, introduced Lt. Sally Durrett, Army nurses' corps who spoke on post-war costs.

The following hour was occupied with talks from the district chairmen. Reporting were, Mrs. D. B. Green, Athens on crime prevention and control; Mrs. H. M. Woods, Athens, motion pictures; Mrs. Clyde Hines, Athens, consumer responsibility; Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Circleville, on adult education; Mrs. O. E. Hearing, Perry county, character education; Mrs. Homer Ridenour, Lancaster, fine arts, literature; Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, Circleville, international relations; Mrs. Milton Gardner, Proctorville, post-war planning; Mrs. E. M. Foulk, New Lexington, public and home safety; Mrs. Henry S. Lewis, Circleville, federation extension and organization; Mrs. Richard Horan, Elyria, state chairman of Junior clubs; Mrs. C. C. Schwartz, Portsmouth, Annette Phelps Lincoln, loan scholarship; Mrs. J. M. Henderson, Martins Ferry, State and general federation pins.

A letter was read from Mrs. LaFell, Dickinson, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs asking for playing cards for service men. Mrs. Goldthorpe also spoke briefly on the new publication of the history of the Ohio Federation.

A luncheon at the Elks club was served at 1 p. m. and was preceded by the group reading the club collect in unison. Mrs. Carl Kennedy asked the grace. No planned program had been made for the luncheon but distinguished guests were informally introduced. Among these was Mrs. Howard Jones, a pioneer in the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs who told a few incidents of early club work.

The afternoon session was opened by the singing of a group of Gypsy songs by the members of the Monday club chorus, directed by Mrs. James P. Moffitt. An invitation was extended from the Lancaster federation to hold the 1946 conference there. The invitation was accepted.

Mrs. C. J. Goldthorpe, Youngstown, state president delivered "Our Presidents Message". Although the war is over, Mrs. Goldthorpe told her audience, the long battle for peace has just begun. Peace is a fragile matter and women must work as hard for peace as they did toward the cessation of war. Peace is especially women's business. Mrs. Goldthorpe said, and the main reason for women's clubs is the moulding of public opinion through study groups and forums. Women can help to make the Charter a reality, she said.

Quoting Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, she said "People must cease being anti-British and anti-Russian. We must spend our time instead, in trying to rehabilitate the world. Unless we send food to the starving people of Europe there can be no peace." She also stressed the importance of youth guidance programs as an aid to future peace by providing good world citizens. Nothing, she said, pays larger dividends in human values.

State Senator E. E. Addison, Columbus was the next speaker on the program who spoke to the conference on "Post-war Problems and Personalities in State Legislation."

He said in part that our State well illustrates the fact that people can govern themselves well and that the two party system is a success. The State, he said, has a post war program for health and welfare work with plans for a public work building project, if there isn't reasonable full employment, and for tax reduction too as soon as possible.

In placing noted personalities, in state legislation, he named Governor Lausche, Frazier Reams, head of welfare department, Robert Secrist, Senator Huffman, former governor John W. Bricker, Thomas Herbert, Senator Robert A. Taft, and William McCullough as a good array from which to choose when election time comes around.

The Monday Club Chorus sang another group of gypsy songs, which was followed by a talk by Mrs. Karl King, Bryan, Northwest district president who talked on "The Club-Woman of Today." Mrs. King mentioned several types of club women which clubs do not need and gave an amusing illustration of one in a telephone conversation. Women today, Mrs. King said, are facing the greatest responsibility they have ever faced. There are four things they must do: They must have faith, they must restore the authority of truth, they must help to recover our moral consciousness and put aside lust for power. Future generations she said, will profit from this.

The last speaker on the program was Mrs. C. N. Chrisman of Dayton, whose subject was "Building a World Charter." Mrs. Chrisman gave a very interesting account of her trip to the San Francisco conference. She attended the Auxiliary meeting as a consultant. The important questions that came up in plenary sessions were brought to these auxiliary meetings by representatives like Anthony Edon and John Foster

Franck, Dove, Hirsch Sign All-America Contracts With Chicago Team

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—The projected All-America football conference today continued its announced plan of robbing the established National Football league of its players.

John L. Keeshin, trucking magnate and owner of the Chicago Franchise in the All-America, announced that Capt. George (Sonny) Franck and Lt. Bob Dove of the Marines and Lt. Elroy Hirsch of the Navy had signed contracts to play with his team after their discharge from the service.

Franck, 1940 Minnesota All-American, belonged to the New York Giants of the N. F. L., while Hirsch was ticketed for the N. F. L.

Hirsch, the famous "crazylegs" of Wisconsin's great 1942 team, had been drafted by a N. F. L. club but could not sign since the league has a blinding rule prohibiting a member from signing a college player before he completes his eligibility.

Hirsch had two years of competition left at Wisconsin but his signing of a pro contract marks him ineligible for further competition under Big Ten rules.

Franck was one of the brightest newcomers to the N. F. L. in 1941 before he entered the Navy the following year. He has seen extensive action as a fighter pilot and observer in the South Pacific.

Dove was one of Notre Dame's all-time great ends, playing his final year in 1942 when he won All-American rating.

ALMOST EVEN
EAST CHICAGO, Ind.—Mrs. E. B. Bowser netted a $2 lost-and-found loss when she returned a purse containing $85 recently. She was tempted to keep the purse because she at first thought it contained $25, almost equal to the sum she had lost shortly before her find. When she discovered $85 tucked in an envelope she returned it to Mrs. Bryce Whitaker of Hammond, who gave her a $25 reward. Mrs. Bowser's original loss was $27.

GOLF TOURNEYS TO BE RESUMED IN NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—Golf was back on a pre-war basis today after President Morton Bogue of the U. S. Golf association announced that the U. S. open, the U. S. amateur and the public links tournaments would be resumed in 1946.

The open will come first, being played from June 13 to 15 at the Canterbury Golf club, Cleveland. The public links meet was set for July 22-27 at the Wellshire course, Denver, and the amateur was scheduled for Sept. 9-14 at Baltusrol club, Springfield, N. J.

Bogue also made tentative arrangements for Walker cup matches Aug. 30-31 at Southampton, N. Y., dependent upon ability of the royal and ancient golf club of St. Andrews to send a team from Great Britain. British professionals have announced they cannot resume Ryder cup competition for at least two years.

Bogue said, and manufacturers have been told that specifications for clubs and balls are unchanged.

TRIPPI CLAIMS HE WAS HELD TO PLAY FOOTBALL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The war department said it had no comment today on Charley Trippi's assertion that he was denied overseas service because the Army wanted him to stay in the United States and play football.

Trippi, whose release last week stirred national comment because he had but 44 of the 70 points set as a requirement, returned to the University of Georgia. Coach Wally Butts said he would play Saturday.

The ace halfback told the Atlanta Journal yesterday that his card was marked "frozen—hold for 1945 football project." He said he wanted to go overseas.

SARRINGHAUS, FISHER JOIN INJURED LIST

Thomas, Dixon, Schnittker Whipping Injuries As Purdue Tilt Nears

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Paul Sarringhaus and Dick Fisher joined the injured list at Ohio State University today as the Bucks rushed preparations for the big game Saturday with Purdue.

Sarringhaus suffered an injured shoulder when the teammate he was trying to block hit Paul during a heavy practice Tuesday. Fisher came up with a pulled muscle while he was running a play.

According to Trainer George Busenbarg, it will take several days for Fisher and Sarringhaus to recover completely.

Absence of Fisher will move Alex Verdova back into the right halfback spot. Coach Carroll Widows says that either Jerry Krall or Hal Daugherty will take Sarringhaus' left half job.

While bad news was hitting the Buck squad, good news came from reports that Russ Thomas and Thornton Dixon were almost in top form again. And Max Schnittker, whose kicking was missed last week, may be able to use his skill against Purdue.

As the Bucks prepped for Purdue it was announced that Warren Amling, big Ohio State guard, has been chosen "lineman of the week" in a poll. He was praised by writers and coaches for his outstanding work during the 59 minutes he played against Wisconsin.

Street Improvement Discussed At City Council Meeting

RESURFACING OF COURT STREET IS CONSIDERED

State, Federal Governments May Help; Vacation Voted Service Employees

Proposed improvement of Court street with possible state and federal aid was discussed at city council meeting Tuesday night.

In a brief and otherwise dull meeting, Councilman Donald Mason rose to announce that the State Highway Department was willing to talk terms with Circleville about improving Court street which forms a part of U. S. route 23 and runs through the heart of town.

Mr. Mason said that Mr. Snyder, division engineer of the State Highway Department wanted to meet with council in the near future to discuss improvement of the thoroughfare. Joseph Rooney, county superintendent of highways, would also participate in the discussions.

The meeting will have to be a special afternoon meeting of council, called on special notice, City Solicitor Joseph Adkins, volunteered.

Cost of the proposed improvements which would consist of resurfacing or "blacktopping" the street was estimated at $50,000 by Mr. Adkins who said that a considerable portion of this amount could probably be borne by the state and federal governments.

Councilman Boyd Horn rose to state, "They ought to put it all up," (referring to state and federal aid.)

An ordinance providing a week's vacation with pay for all city service employees of one year or more came up for its third reading and was passed unanimously by the six members present—Horn, Crites, Mason, Cook, Anderson and Reid.

A request for damage by Lawrence Davis, 366 Walnut street, for expenses occurred after his wife stepped out of his car into what he termed a "washout" on East Logan street was referred to the committee on laws and claims for investigation.

Councilman George Crites said that hole into which Mrs. Davis stepped when getting out of her automobile wasn't a washout, but an emergency gutter, about 5 inches deep, that had been cut by the service department. He said that it was a regrettable incident, but did not see negligence on the part of the city.

Mr. Mason said the city was not liable because it was not at a pedestrian crossing and that property owners were responsible for gutters.

Councilman Ray Anderson reported that the N & W Railroad had done a "fine job" in raising the tracks at the South Court street crossing to make traffic over them more even. Mr. Crites said that the tracks at Mount street crossing were on a proper level.

Makes Fast Circuit
FRANKLIN, Ind. — Circuit Judge Grant Rogers believes in speed. On a Monday morning, he borrowed an airplane and flew 70 miles to Bedford to preside in a murder trial as special judge. The trial opened at 10 a. m. Twenty-four hours later, the presentation of evidence was completed, the case went to the jury and the defendant was convicted and sentenced in the space of a few minutes. Judge Rogers hopped in the plane and buzzed back home, 30 hours after he left his own court. He was back on the bench in the Franklin court the next morning.

The Republic of Brazil occupies nearly half of the area of South America. It is more than 3,275,000 square miles in size.

MANY CHANGES NOTED IN CITY

Few Merchants Who Were In On First Pumpkin Show Still Active Here

Many changes in Circleville business have taken place since the first Pumpkin Show was held in 1903.

Few of the merchants who were in business at the time of the first show can be found in the community now.

Among the present Circleville merchants who participated in the first Pumpkin Show are George F. Grand Girard, Ed Sensesbrenner, "Kitty" Fissell of Caddy Miller's Hat shop, Fred Brunner, Crist Brothers and W. M. Murray.

Dr. Howard Jones, who took part in the early shows, is still practicing medicine in the same location. Will Hamilton was then associated with his mother in the operation of Hamilton's store.

Other businesses here at the time of the first show and now operated by relatives of the early owners are Fritz Bakery and the L. M. Butch Jewelry store.

Street Improvement Discussed At City Council Meeting

RESURFACING OF COURT STREET IS CONSIDERED

State, Federal Governments May Help; Vacation Voted Service Employees

Proposed improvement of Court street with possible state and federal aid was discussed at city council meeting Tuesday night.

In a brief and otherwise dull meeting, Councilman Donald Mason rose to announce that the State Highway Department was willing to talk terms with Circleville about improving Court street which forms a part of U. S. route 23 and runs through the heart of town.

Mr. Mason said that Mr. Snyder, division engineer of the State Highway Department wanted to meet with council in the near future to discuss improvement of the thoroughfare. Joseph Rooney, county superintendent of highways would also participate in the discussions.

The meeting will have to be a special afternoon meeting of council, called on special notice, City Solicitor Joseph Adkins, volunteered.

Cost of the proposed improvements which would consist of resurfacing or "blacktopping" the street was estimated at $50,000 by Mr. Adkins who said that a considerable portion of this amount could probably be borne by the state and federal governments.

Councilman Boyd Horn rose to state, "They ought to put it all up" (referring to state and federal aid.)

An ordinance providing a week's vacation with pay for all city service employees of one year or more came up for its third reading and was passed unanimously by the six members present—Horn, Crites, Mason, Cook, Anderson and Reid.

A request for damage by Lawrence Davis, 266 Walnut street, for expenses occurred after his wife stepped out of his car into what he termed a "washout" on East Logan street was referred to the committee on laws and claims for investigation.

Councilman George Crites said that hole into which Mrs. Davis stepped when getting out of her automobile wasn't a washout, but an emergency gutter, about 5 inches deep, that had been cut by the service department. He said that it was a regrettable incident, but did not see negligence on the part of the city.

Mr. Mason said the city was not liable because it was not at a pedestrian crossing and that property owners were responsible for gutters.

Councilman Ray Anderson reported that the N & W Railroad had done a "fine job" in raising the tracks at the South Court street crossing to make traffic over them more even. Mr. Crites said that the tracks at Mound street crossing were on a proper level.

Makes Fast Circuit

FRANKLIN, Ind. — Circuit Judge Grant Rogers believes in speed. On a Monday morning, he borrowed an airplane and flew 70 miles to Bedford to preside in a murder trial as special judge. The trial opened at 10 a. m. Twenty-four hours later, the presentation of evidence was completed, the case went to the jury and the defendant was convicted and sentenced in the space of a few minutes. Judge Rogers hopped in the plane and buzzed back home, 30 hours after he left his own court. He was back on the bench in the Franklin court the next morning.

The Republic of Brazil occupies nearly half of the area of South America. It is more than 3,275,000 square miles in size.

JIM YOST BACK ON JOB AFTER ARMY SERVICE

Jim Yost has returned to his job as manager of the Harpster-Yost Hardware store in Circleville after serving 32 months in the Army, 13 months of which was spent overseas.

Mr. Yost received the honor of being commissioned on the battlefield. He was commissioned while in frontline action in Belgium February 19, 1945, for his outstanding service and valor as a forward observer for a field artillery battalion.

Mr. Yost, who was the first president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and who was president of that organization when he entered the service, began as a buck private at Fort Hayes. He was a sergeant when he was sent overseas and then won his commission as a second lieutenant on the battlefield.
